Will Discuss Rutledge Building Program Monday

A public discussion of the proposed building program at Ann Rutledge school, Lincoln Estates, will take place next Monday night, Aug. 14, at the school. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock by the board of education. Voters of Dist. 56-C are to hold a special election Saturday Aug. 19, at which they will ballot on a proposal to issue $69,000 in bonds to meet the costs of an addition to and the remodeling of Ann Rutledge school. The school will serve as the polling place and voting will take place between 12 noon and 7 p.m. The new construction will be an addition of two primary rooms at the north end of the present school plant. The old primary rooms now in use will undergo a complete renovation. Necessary additions and corrections will be made for wash-room facilities, teachers' rest room and administrative office are some of the important features of this construction program. The entire structure will be veneered with brick and greatly improved with fire resistant materials, it was explained. John Van Donk, president of the Ann Rutledge school board, stated that when completed the proposed construction program would not only correct many inadequacies but also provide the Lincoln Estates community with a modern up-to-date school plant of five classrooms with space for approximately 180 pupils. The present enrollment is 130 and reported to be growing steadily. The board is hopeful of approval of the bond issue so work can begin this fall, probably October with possible completion of the construction program by May, 1962. Lincoln Estate voters have always responded favorably to requests for school funds in the past, it was pointed out. The people there have never rejected any monetary request of the Lincoln-Way high school board and the Ann Rutledge board hopes the request to aid the elementary district will also find favor with the voters.

LICENSE SUSPENSION
Due to three violations the driver license of Kenneth E. Fricker of 131st and route 45, Orland Park has been suspended and two revocations for driving while intoxicated were issued to Theodore E. Leach, 647 Ogden avenue and Ronald A. Tarrant, 116 Pine street, both of New Lenox. The suspension and violations were issued thru the office of Secretary of State, Charles F. Carpentier.

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING showing how Ann Rutledge school will appear if the voters of Dist. 56-C approve a $69,000 bond issue at a special election scheduled for Aug. 19. New rooms will be added and the entire structure, now frame, will have a brick exterior.

Shut Off City Water Tonight

Member of the Mokena village board announces that the city water will be shut off tonight (Thursday) Aug. 10 at 8:30 p.m. to enable workers to repair a leak in a fire hydrant.

New Lenox Annexes Area For Industry

The New Lenox village board last week adopted an ordinance annexing 80 acres to the village that had been owned by Charles Kirstein north of U.S. 30 and east of the Wabash railroad, subject to it being zoned for industry. The piece lies across the highway, north, from the property owned by Edward Lord. Lord's property has been annexed and thus opens the door to the annexation of the Kirstein land. Several months ago a group interested in developing the Kirstein property for industrial purposes had a petition to that effect before the county zoning board of appeals. Meeting with objections, however, the group withdrew the petition and shortly afterwards came to the village board and asked to become a part of the municipality. Meantime sentiment appeared to change in favor of the proposed industry and now the village board has voted to take in the area.

Adopt Measure To Broaden Sales Tax Base

An ordinance broadening the scope of the retailers tax to cover materials used in services and on real estate transactions has been adopted by the village board of New Lenox. It will become effective 10 days after this date which is also the publication date of the measure. The state department of revenue is asking all municipalities that collect a half cent sales tax to broaden the base to conform with state's action. It will make for easier book-keeping by the state revenue office, it was pointed out.

New Lenox To Embark On Repair Program

Resolutions covering the rehabilitation of 14 streets in the village of New Lenox thru use of motor fuel tax have been adopted by the village board and forwarded to the state highway department for approval. Bids will be taken then and it is expected the work can be completed by early fall. The village has retained James Underhill, who was with the state highway department some 40 years and retired last month, as engineer to prepare the resolutions and estimates. It is estimated the improvement, which will include scarifying, grading and preparation of the base, will cost approximately $11,000. Mr. Underhill's fee will amount to 4% of the cost of the project. Trustee Eugene Hunt, who is in charge of the street department, said that other streets, not covered in the motor fuel tax program, will be improved thru the use of village funds. Work has been held up on repairing damage to the surface of blacktop streets by reason of the sewer project because of fund transfers. The contractor originally paid the village $9,000 to effect such repairs. Extras and extension of the sewer system brought the cost above original estimates. Some second lien bonds were sold to meet these obligations but to save interest to the village the board transferred the $9,000 to the sewer construction fund until it received another payment from the federal government on the grant allowed for the sewage treatment plant, it was explained. This payment has been received and the $9,000 has been transferred back to the general fund for use on the streets. The 14 streets to be repaired out of motor fuel tax money are: Pine, Haven, Oak (south and north); Root, from Oak north to Fir; Cooper, from north limits to Fir; Church, from Haven to Rock Island station; Gum, from Cedar to Root; Oak View, from Cedar to Cooper; Wood, for 190 feet west of Cedar; Fourth ave., Cedar to Prairie; Prairie, Fourth to highway; Cedar, Haven to U.S. 30.

Orders Wabash To Start Work On Francis Crossing

Formal order directing the installation of safety signals at the Wabash railroad crossing on Francis road has been issued by the Illinois Commerce Commission and those responsible for the work are directed to have the job completed within a year from July 26. The railroad must make a report to the ICC in February on the progress of the work.

Wabash engineers have estimated the cost of the safety devices for the crossing will come to $8,672. Of this amount 65% is to be paid by the state out of its grade crossing protection fund: 25% by Will County and 10% by the railroad. The railroad also is to maintain the signals. It is estimated this cost will average $370 a year so that over a 35 year period the maintenance will have cost the Wabash some $7,000. In the event the railroad's engineers are wrong with their estimate and the cost exceeds $8,672 the state is not liable for more than $5,675, and the railroad will have to pay the difference.

The railroad and the Will County highway department also are directed by the ICC to rehabilitate the crossing, the county to supply the material and the railroad the labor. The kind of crossing is not specified in the order but it was reported it probably would be of planks. Plank crossings, it was said, last longer than other materials.

Three persons have been killed on the Francis road crossing in the past year and a half. Coroner's juries, officials of New Lenox and Mokena, New Lenox town officials Supt. James McCarthy, head of the Will County highway department, and officials of railroad unions joined in condemnation of the fact that the crossing is unprotected and asked that safety devices be installed.

Because there is but a single track the ICC would not order safety gates for the crossing but it has ordered flasher signals that will work automatically when a train approaches. Because of trees--and at certain season, growing crops--it is difficult for motorists approaching the crossing to see if a train is coming until they are practically upon the track, the ICC was informed.

Copies of the commission's order to proceed with the crossing were delivered to Supervisor John Francis, who has been pushing for action, Mayor Charles Swanberg, of Mokena, who represented his community at the ICC hearing, Supt. McCarthy, and Gordon G. Cox, New Lenox, legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors and Brakemen.

D Battery To Be Host At Dinner Party

Two or three times a year the various branches of the Nike Missile base at Orland Park are hosts at private dinner parties. This Saturday evening, Aug. 12 the D battery, composed of some 50 enlisted men and officers, will hold a dinner party for their invited guest at the VFW hall at Mokena. Following the dinner an informal evening of dancing has been planned.

Will Try Again To Cure New Lenox Drainage Ills

Another effort to eliminate a drainage problem at Second ave. and Pine street, New Lenox, has been undertaken, this time by the people living in the area with some cooperation by the village.

The village will pay for the tile necessary to carry water along the street right-of-way to a line that eventually empties into Hickory creek. The proposed tile would carry only surface water.

There is a ditch at Second and Pine that is approximately five feet deep for a short stretch. It is said the installation of tile there will drain this water away. Now after a heavy rain the water will stand, sometimes for days, residents complain. They contend this is a menace to health and to safety. A child could drown there easily, it was stated.

The tile would cost the village approximately $780, according to Street Commissioner Eugene W. Hunt. The village also would allow the people sponsoring the project to make use of municipal owned machinery.

The situation at Second and Pine has been a headache to New Lenox officials for many years. A few months ago the present board had proceeded to a point where it was prepared to spend some $8,000 to correct the situation and bids taken. The state highway department was ready to allow the village to use motor fuel tax for the purpose because the drainage system would protect and benefit an arterial street. The matter was dropped, however, when the village was unable to obtain an easement for the line over private property.

Plan Special Events For Frankfort Sauerkraut Day

The first annual Sauerkraut Jamboree will be held Saturday, Aug. 26, at Frankfort, sponsored by the Frankfort Chamber of Commerce.

On the menu of the day-long event will be sauerkraut and frankforters (not frankfurters). The affair is set up to promote good will and to publicize the community.

Barrels of kraut and tons of frankforters will be served at a special German-style garden to be erected on Kansas St., near the center of the town. Times and locations of events have not yet been determined but there will be baby and pet parades, according to Robert Dean and the Rev. James Parker, chairman of the children's events.

Water fights are being arranged between various civic groups by Wendell Morrison and Fred Kohlhaugen. Rhineland music will be played by a German band at several concerts. Plans are being made to contact Robert Taylor of the Lincoln-Way high school band and Perry Friedman of the Frankfort and Mokena grade school bands to arrange a mid-afternoon concert.

Several hundreds of dollars in prizes will be divided into half-hour awards. Merchants of Frankfort will offer values at all-time low prices during the occasion.

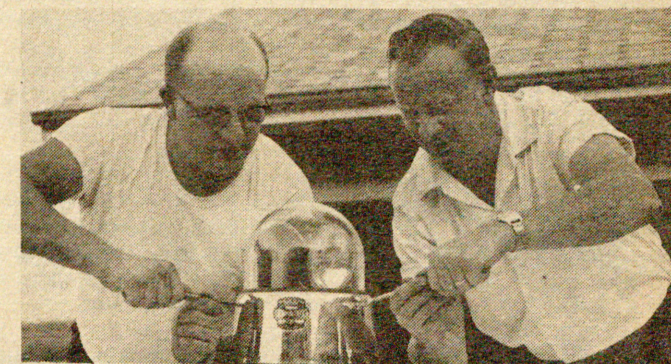

Ask Parents To Contact School

With the opening of the New Lenox grade schools set for Tuesday, Sept. 5, Supt. John Oster has asked that parents of all new enrollees in the school contact him in the next few weeks.

This will allow more time to plan teachers' assignments and insure that a sufficiently large supply of textbooks and other materials is available.

The completion of the new classroom section at Oakview school will bring about a change in attendance areas. When schools start in September, most pupils in kindergarten, grades one, two, three, four, five and six who live south of Lincoln highway in New Lenox will attend Haven school.

Pupils in the village north of Lincoln highway in the same grades mentioned above will attend Oakview. All seventh and eighth graders and pupils who will be in either the beginners' band or the concert band will attend Oakview. In order to equalize classroom enrollments, some pupils who are transported from rural areas in school--contracted busses will be assigned to Haven school.

MOKENA FIRE DEPARTMENT gets new flasher light for its pumper. The light is being installed by Fire Chief Carol Roberts (left) and Wilbur Schaff, commander of the Amvets post, Mokena, which presented the light to the department. The Mokena department is strictly volunteer and exists on the work of its members and the charity of its friends.

LW Budget Of $743,963 Ready For Public View

The budget for Lincoln-Way high school for the fiscal year 1961-62 totaling $743,963 will be placed on file for public inspection at the school, beginning tomorrow, Aug. 11.

A public hearing on the annual appropriation figures will be held by the board of education at 8 p.m., Sept. 14, in the school office.

Altho the voters of the district granted the district an increase of 21 cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation to bring greater revenues into the educational fund, Supt. A. Hunter Chapman said yesterday that he did not believe it would be necessary levy more than a dollar and it was hoped it could be kept under that figure. The limit for the educational fund had been 86 cents and the 21 cent raise would bring the maximum figure up to $1.07 per $100 equalized assessed valuation.

From figures obtained by the board, Supt. Chapman said, it was expected the assessed valuation of the district would be increased about $5-million this year which would enable the board to keep the tax rate down around the $1 mark. In this year's budget the educational fund is listed at $500,018; the building fund at $96,945; the bond account at $70,000 and the bond interest at $77,000. It was explained that the fact the budget total is $743,963 does not mean the board expects to spend that amount but in order to expend tax money it must be appropriated for specific purposes. Then if the money is available it can be spent if believed necessary. Enrollment at Lincoln-Way will be approximately 821 according to figures now available. This will be an increase of 100 over the enrollment at the close of the past school year.

Registrations to date show 265 freshmen; sophomores, 222; juniors, 186 and seniors, 148.

There were 156 in the 1960 graduating class.

Supt. Chapman said that prospective students who have not yet registered (they may be for any class) are asked to do so as soon as possible. The school office is open week-days for such registration. Parents having questions concerning registrations may call the school office at HUXley 5-2051.

2 L-W Debaters Win Honors

James Lakin, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Lakin, 1 Plaza drive of New Lenox and Michael Tate, son of Supervisor and Mrs. George Tate of Frankfort were named champions in a debate contest sponsored by the Ohio State university in late July. Both young men received their awards and trophies on original orations. Both will enter their senior year at Lincoln-Way high school this fall.

Lakin has been in the debating class at Lincoln-Way since his freshman year and Tate joined the class in his sophomore year.

THE HUNGRY FIVE, a German band made up of members of the Bill Carnegie orchestra of Joliet, will appear at the Frankfort Sauerkraut Jamboree, Saturday Aug. 26. And what better place could one want for a German band than at an occasion where sauerkraut and "frank-

Report Competition Keen For Post As J.P. Administrator

(CNS) The county board Monday adopted a resolution setting $12,500 as the salary of the executive administrator for justices of the Peace and transferring $4,166.68 from the $55,160 appropriation for J. P. clerks to pay his salary for the remaining four months of fiscal 1961.

However, President John J. Duffy postponed again the naming of a man to the new post, making the same promise as two weeks ago that he would submit a name "in the near future" to the board.

Next board meeting was set for Aug. 22, but Duffy told reporters he would call a special meeting if he decides on the man in the meantime.

The postponement almost coincided with the announcement by County Clerk Edward J. Barrett that he had received a resignation from Irving W. Eiserman, a J. P. from Lyons township who formerly held the Cook County Police Magistrate and Justices of the Peace association and has been sitting in the Bedford Park sheriff's court, from his $5,500 elected job. Presumably Eiserman's action was taken to make him eligible for appointment to the $12,500 job since the state's attorney's office handed down an opinion that no elected justice could take the job because the salaries of all J.P.'s must be equal under the law.

It followed published reports that Thomas E. Crowley, 1717 Glenview road, Glenview, a former Glenview village attorney and cousin to Superior Judge Wilbert F. Crowley, had the inside track for the post, with Asst. State's Attorney Alvin F. Morse of Chicago's 50th ward also a contender, as having handled the problem for his office.

Quered as to the reason for the delay when the matter was considered so urgent, President Duffy, who recently underwent surgery, told reporters he wanted to "talk to two men from the suburban area who are now away on vacation" in an effort to make sure of getting the best man for the job who is acceptable to the justices of the peace.

Altho he refused to identify them, this description would fit Eiserman and Romie J. Palmer of Blue Island, now head of the P.M. and J.P. Association, both out of town on vacation, and seemed to strengthen the possibility of Eiserman being named.

The bottle smashed, scattering small bits of glass over the interior of the car.

Linda and Bradley Etheridge from Wyandot returned home Sunday after spending a week with their aunt, Mrs. Don Aspel and family.

Rev. and Mrs. Cox and her sister, Mrs. Murphy, of Minneapolis, were entertained at dinner last Sunday in the Earl Burnworth home. Miss Murphy provided the special music in the form of a vocal solo for the worship service.

The Good Luck Camp of Royal Neighbors will again hold a picnic meeting at Dellwood Park on Aug. 17, beginning with a barbecue at noon. All members are asked to bring their own dishes and a prize for the games.

The Homer men's club held their annual family picnic Sunday, Aug. 6.

Brett Bieley 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bieley of Gougar Rd., is seriously ill with muscular dystrophy. He is being treated at home.

Jerome Paddock spent the past week at an International Harvester Demonstration and School at Marseilles, Ill.

A similar vein was used by County Clerk Barrett, who conferred with President Duffy and attended the board meeting. He was more outspoken in support of Eiserman, the still guarded, but said:

"I am very skeptical about naming someone not the best man for the job, because the justices of the peace can refuse to obey his orders and it will make my job of administering the J.P. clerks more difficult. We think 10 or 12 courtrooms will be sufficient, each with a clerk and with justices sitting at various hours. Four more clerks will be assigned to the Administrator's office, possibly at 77 West Washington st., where civil suits may be filed and assigned out for trial.

"Prices quoted for courtroom range from $175 to $700 a month, but I know of three free ones we can get; the three sheriff's station courts, and am hopeful we can get others in townships for no rent."

As an example of "bills that won't be paid" he cited one received from Justice of the Peace James G. Berber, 809 1/2 Main street, Evanston, for $841.64 covering expenses other than his $1,026.58 salary from April 24 to June 30, 1961. He only billed the county for $786.64, allowing them credit for $55 "court costs collected and not remitted."

Items of the bill were: $230 rent for his office at $102.50 per month, $20.15 for lights, $159.32 for telephone, $343.54 for "help", and $88.63 for supplies.

Frees Grass Slaves

Three rousing cheers for John Madison! Who is John Madison, you ask? Well, now he is just the most. Abraham Lincoln freed the slaves. John Madison should go down in history as the man who struck fetters that linked the householder to a lawn mower each and every week during the growing season.

Mr. Madison, according to news reports, is a University of California horticulturist. He has been studying grass, its habits, likes and dislikes. He is a scientist, a man who deals only in facts so what he says is to be taken at its full worth and is not to be confused with the meanderings of some lawn-chained individual seeking an excuse to get away for golf, fishing, or just a nap while tuned in on the ballgame.

Mr. Madison, the scientist say, and we quote: "If you happen to be busy and let the grass grow two weeks between mowings, the lawn will benefit."

He states further that he finds that it takes grass a good five days to recover from the effects of a mowing. It makes us feel better to know that. It takes us a good five days to recover from mowing the grass and we are glad to know we have company, especially the grass.

There you are men! If you need a better excuse you have a hard taskmaster indeed, and the only thing to do to keep the peace is to go ahead and mow the blamed grass each and every week.

Women And The Gas Tax

The General Federation of Women's clubs -- along with an ever-lengthening list of organizations of almost every nature -- has taken up arms against excessively high gasoline taxes.

Specifically, the Federation calls for the rollback of the fourth cent of the present federal gas tax. This cent, it should be remembered was supposed to be a "temporary" levy. But in government tax matters, "temporary" is all too often a synonym for "permanent".

The Federation, which has a membership of 11 million women in 15,500 clubs, points out that the average combined state-federal tax on gasoline is higher than on any other everyday item in the entire economy, and runs to almost 50 per cent. In the words of the Federation's president, "This is more than the tax rate on diamonds and chinchilla coats. We do not believe that such an important item on the family budget as gasoline should bear so heavy a tax burden."

It's good to have the distaff side taking an active part in a campaign that directly affects practically everyone in the country. And the campaign against excessive gas taxes can't be allowed to languish -- for, if it does, more "temporary" taxes will be piled on top of "temporary" taxes and the price of gas will become prohibitive.

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF
ILLINOIS STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

IN COOPERATION WITH THIS NEWSPAPER

This is another in a series of articles provided as a public service by the Illinois State Bar Association for this newspaper.

THINGS TO BEWARE WHEN BUYING "ON TIME": Most of us, when we purchase an item of considerable cost, such as a home appliance, furniture or a car, do not pay the full price at once, but instead arrange to pay the balance in installments.

When we do this we must take care that we understand the possible legal consequences of our failure to make each payment as it falls due.

Once the signatures are written on the contract, legal rights and duties become fixed, and usually each party is bound by what he has signed, even though he does not read or understand the contract.

Henry Hairbrain's case: In Illinois, many items of personal property are sold under "conditional sale contracts" with promissory notes attached. Assume that Henry Hairbrain purchases an automobile for $2,000, pays $500 cash as a down payment, and signs a contract of conditional sale for $1,500 balance. He also signs notes promising to pay the balance in monthly installments of $100 plus finance charges.

Altho Henry takes immediate possession of the car, the seller retains ownership until ALL payments are made. Should Henry fail to make a payment, the seller has the right to take the car back from Henry, and Henry forfeits the payments he has made.

So if Henry has made payments totalling $300 in addition to his $500 cash down payment, and he defaults by failing to pay the next $100 installment, the seller may immediately repossess the car.

If the seller then resells the car for $1,000, so that he has the $1,000 resale price and $800 from Henry, he may charge Henry for the $200 difference ($2,000 price less $1,800 received) plus expenses incurred in re-taking and re-selling the car.

Even if Henry stopped paying because he discovered defects in the car and realized that the seller had grossly misrepresented its condition to him, this would not necessarily protect Henry as against a finance company or bank that had purchased Henry's note from the seller, as usually happens.

Investigate charges: When you purchase an item by installment payments, do you always investigate the amount of finance or carrying charges you are paying? The careful buyer will always inquire and personally compute the difference between the cash price and the total amount of installment payments.

You may be surprised at the amount of the carrying charge and you may well find it less expensive to borrow the money from a bank or credit union, and pay cash to the seller. When Henry purchased the car, the seller, to be certain that the car is protected in the event he has to repossess the car from Henry, required him to take out a fire, theft and $50 deductible collision insurance policy on the car. Henry did not stop to think that this insurance gives him no protection against damage that he causes with the car to other persons or their property.

Therefore he is in danger of liability for damages, and he has no liability and property damage insurance.

Under Illinois law, he could lose his driver's license if he is involved in an accident and cannot post adequate security if required to do so.

Contact seller: When Henry discovered that he could not keep up the payments, he should have contacted the seller immediately and explained his problem. Unemployment, accidents, or sickness would not ordinarily relieve Henry from his obligation to make the payments, but normally most sell-

There is a mural on the wall in front of the desk where your correspondent sometimes writes. It is new, in the sense that it was but recently acquired.

How it will be when the snow is pelted down and the temperature sliding downward at a rapid pace remains to be felt. Right now with summer in full swing and the heat bouncing off the sidewalk like a blast from an oven, it is rather nice.

The picture shows a mountain lake. On the side from which one looks across the water are the tops of several towering pines. Thus one looks down as well as across. There are countless in the distance and on the other side is a range of raw rock mountains, with snow caught in their angular faces.

Some of the water is as blue as the sky, and some has a greenish touch, perhaps a reflection from the green of the pines, as there are touches of white reflected from the snowy peaks.

There is no sign of man -- no smoke from a cooking fire, no smoke of any kind, in fact; no cabin, no tent, no empty beer cans, no TV antennas, no telephone wires, no automobiles, no automobile tracks or other marks of civilization.

It is an isolated spot but it doesn't look lonely. . . rather it has an air of tranquility and peace.

And the fishing should be good.

Jefferson P. Throttlebottom, eminent bourbon critic and probably one of the most accomplished free-loaders in the continental United States, was not too enthusiastic.

"I do not pretend to be an art critic," Mr. Throttlebottom said, "unless one includes such noted lithographs as 'Custer's Last Stand,' the head and shoulder pictures of the bock beer goat, or the grace with which a good bartender lightly caresses the rim of a martini glass with lemon peel, among the recognized art forms.

"I repeat, I am not an art critic," Jeff went on, "but it does seem to me that whoever is responsible for this picture before us over enthusiastic on the water. Just look at all of it. I am ready to admit that water has its uses, such as for bathing, making coffee or as a chaser after a good dollop of spirits. But it has its drawbacks too if left uncontrolled. For instance, ice in a beverage is refreshing but on sidewalks and streets it is quite hazardous.

"Another thing," Jeff continued, "Look at those mountains. Did you ever see such a forbidding, barren thing as that range on the other side of the lake.

"Those are no mountains to fool with, my boy. Look them over carefully. Do you see any smoke? Do you see any outline of a guest house where a warm fire, good food and drink, and comfortable beds await the weary traveler? Do you see any sign of habitation at all?

"Did you ever see anything more bleak? There is nothing there but rock and snow. As a matter of fact it would be better if there was more snow. As a matter of fact it would be as it stands now there is not enough snow in sight to give a St. Bernard dog purchase for its fees. And let me say that a mountain without a St. Bernard, or at least a foothold for one, is a poor thing indeed and one to be shunned.

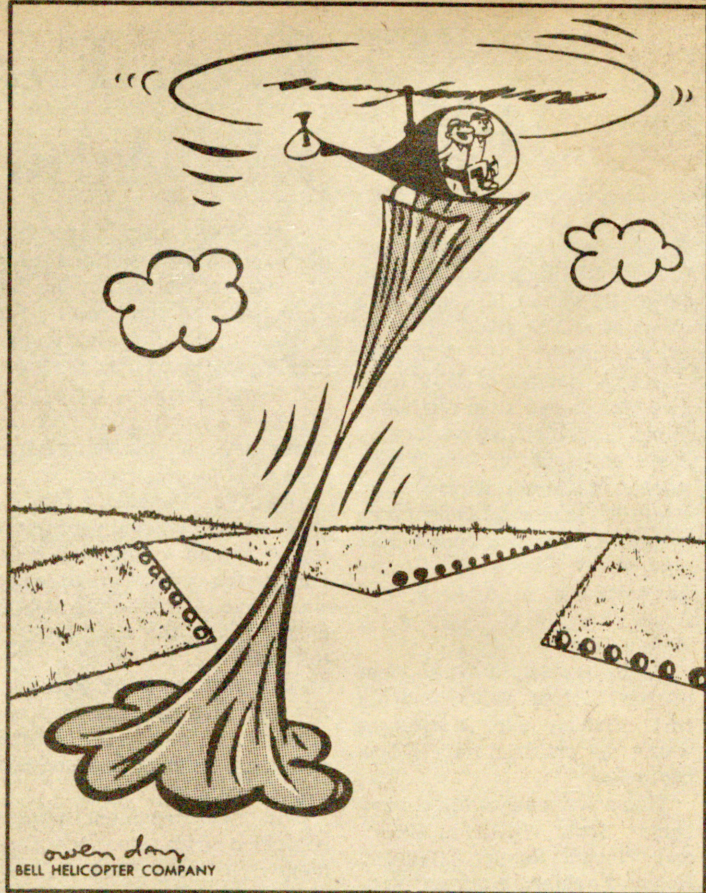

"A noble breed, the St. Bernard," Jeff went on, "and a true friend to man. What a stirring sight it must be to see such a noble animal with a cask of fine brandy slung about his neck come leaping thru the snow to the aid of a spent traveler.

"Picture for yourself such a scene. The traveler, exhausted by his battle against the elements has fallen to the snow-covered ground; he is struggling forward on hands and knees, he is gasping for breath and his heartbeat is fading.

"I hate people who leave their chewing gum on the runways!"

He begins to hear music, off-key, jarring but with a beat so he knew he was near civilization. Then a shaggy form looms out of the driving snow. It is a St. Bernard, complete with brandy, a transistor radio, a sample copy of Readers Digest 20 free trading stamps, and samples of soap, cleansing tissues and two complimentary tickets to a barn theater.

"But in these mountains before us on the wall a traveler wouldn't stand a chance of rescue except by helicopter or unless someone organized and trained Big Horn sheep to supplant the St. Bernard."

Jeff pulled out a handkerchief and mopped his forehead. He shuddered.

"No my boy, I have no yen to visit the origins of this picture. To think of being alone on that mountain side is nerve shaking. Either take me out of here or bring in a St. Bernard."

Having no St. Bernard handy I volunteered to substitute. On the sidewalk I gave Jeff his choice--across the street to Jake's where brandy was available or up the street to Harry's where there was coffee. He elected to take coffee. What a switch.

Countryside News And Views

There is no cure for Dutch elm disease! Once infected, the tree is doomed.

Claims made for various chemicals are based on incomplete observation, not on systematic and scientific evaluation. The search for a cure is being carried on throughout the country by universities and experiment stations. Undoubtedly it is but a matter of time until the complete cure is found.

Meanwhile, it is becoming increasingly evident that the preventative control measures recommended by pathologists are saving most of the elms where the practices are used.

What are the measures being used successfully? According to Dr. Dan Neeley of the Illinois Natural History Survey, complete sanitation of both publicly and privately owned elms is a basic control procedure and is rigidly enforced in each city with a successful control program. Primarily this includes the prompt removal of diseased trees. Diseased trees located between June 1 and Aug. 1 are removed within 10 to 30 days following observation of the first Dutch elm disease symptoms. All diseased trees are removed before May 1 of the following year.

Sanitation also includes elimination and destruction of weak, dying or devitalized elm wood from healthy elm trees. Sanitation pruning of healthy elms is conducted in most of the cities with successful programs.

Spraying the elms with an insecticide is recommended for all elms in the community but in Illinois, spraying has been practiced principally on publicly owned trees and those privately owned trees located adjacent to the parkway. DDT is the insecticide most commonly used and the mistblower is the usual means of application; a single application of insecticide during the dormant season is the spray used.

In Northern Illinois cities that have had control programs for 5 or more years, annual losses from Dutch elm disease have been held to an extremely low level. Other cities where the programs have been in effect less than five years have shown similar results. Several cities, Clarendon Hills, Glenview, Kenilworth, Lincolnwood, Oak Park and Winnetka have kept losses at or below one-half of one percent per year.

This is remarkable in view of the fact that in some other cities from 7 to 30 percent of the unsprayed elms were lost in 1960 alone. And remember in most cities with control programs, only publicly owned elms were sprayed.

Many people in this area have heard of the tremendous losses down state, but feel it can never happen here. It is happening!

After two or three years with losses as high as thirty percent, Northern Illinois cities will begin to look as barren as Champaign or Bloomington where only 6 to 8 percent of the elms remain.

Look down your street and count 100 elms. Then imagine what it will look like if only six remained.

What can you and your community do to save the elms? The following eight steps have been designed by the National Shade Tree Council and the Illinois Natural History Survey to serve as a guide to individuals and communities.

1. Call the problem of Dutch elm disease to the attention of local municipal officials and civic organizations.

2. Arrange through civic organizations to hold a public meeting to acquaint the local public with the nature of the disease and the possibilities for its control.

3. Form an elm tree committee to work for a control program, including representatives from both civic and municipal organizations.

4. Obtain the professional services of a trained forester or experienced arborist to evaluate, design and supervise a control program. Such a consultant should have no commercial interest in the project on which he is retained as a consultant.

5. Survey the total population in the community to estimate the value of the trees to be protected and to estimate costs for suitable control.

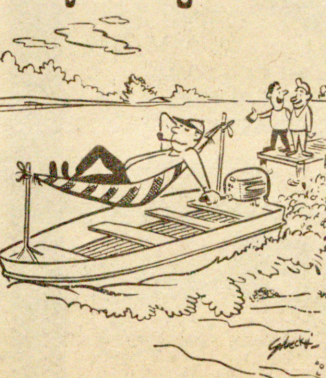

6. Review all available information on results of the elm survey and on control of the disease in order to design a specific program suitable for your community.

7. Organize and promote a public education campaign on Dutch elm disease to be continued for the whole period for which control is necessary.

8. Design a program suitable to your community needs and resources, and present it to local municipal officials and the public for approval.

If these steps are followed now, you can be sure that in future years as you look down your street you will still be able to count 100 elms.

The securities markets as well as the public and congress, will recognize the fact that the Russians have now succeeded in putting man into space and also in orbit around the earth and back again. The Russians must certainly be given full credit for this achievement, but it is hoped that full credit will not mean bringing on a case of the jitters and resignation to the uncomfortable position of being second best in other than this particular feat.

For all except the expert military men, an accurate appraisal of the value of this feat and its importance in international balance of military power, is impossible. However, we shall see many as inept as ourselves, who will be daring enough to attribute sensational advantages in this. Some military men of top grade, have pointed out quietly, that space feats are highly desirable for scientific reasons and long range plans, but that for our problems of the present, these achievements are not helpful in the degree with which the public acclaims them.

The Russians have been very successful in their use of propaganda with expert timing of events so they will reach the public headlines at exactly the right time. Dictators do not fear public opinion except when hungry and driven to reckless actions, as a mass. Our western world leaders are now conferring as to what action we shall take in dealing with the Russians on the Berlin and other questions. Our leaders will find the newspapers and the airwaves loaded with suggestions that we make sure to avoid irritating the Russians too much. To be a statesman in a democracy, a man must first be elected!

From an industrial point of view, it is rather well known in circles which follow industrial statistics as related to commodity production in various countries, that Russia in 1915 under the Czars, had a commodity production of about 46% as great as that of the USA. Today, this over-all commodity production is estimated at about 47% of our production. These figures, of course, are strictly on production of commodities themselves and not based on monetary valuations.

Like the farmer who explained to his city cousin that in order to successfully stay in the farming business, he must use his lumber and paint to preserve and improve the barn as without the barn the house would be empty.

Almost never is the transportation system of Russia explained either on the air or in news columns. If a country uses its productive powers excessively in one direction, there is little or nothing left for other segments of the economy. Russia's transportation system is most certainly its Achilles' heel. Industrial eminence requires a good and fast transportation system. Russia has the wide gauge track on its

READ PSALM 119:33-40

Teach me, O Lord, the way of thy statutes; and I shall keep it unto the end. (Psalm 119:33.)

The psalmist impresses us here in that the presence of God was real to him. He believed that the eternal God would accompany him through all the paths of life. This certainty was so real to him that he wanted to proclaim it from the bottom of his soul. However, he wanted his faith to find backing in the Word of God.

The Psalms marvelously anticipated the spirit of Christianity. Today we have a greater and better testimony of the presence of God. It came to us in the person of God made flesh, Jesus Christ. Through His personal presence He revealed the Father and declared all things to us.

Today, as yesterday, the man of Christ should be completely consecrated to Him, always studying His Word and being fortified by His presence. Thus the Christian receives power to announce Christ by his testimony -- Emmanuel, God with us.

PRAYER: We praise Thee, O heavenly Father, for the great testimony of ancient men of faith who were consecrated to Thee. We also praise and glorify Thee for the ineffable gift of Thy beloved Son, Jesus Christ. In His name we pray. Amen.

rails. In years gone by the reason for this difference in rail gauge was explained as a military defense in that western European rail equipment could not travel into that country with military might. The highways are very bad and especially north and south. The rail system is largely of an east and west nature.

Blowing hot and cold on our military planning, has cost us a great deal of money and it is hoped we will now make plans on the basis of calm survey of the facts at hand and not momentary pressures of the shrewd propagandist. Hitler was also good at this.

DUTCH ELM DISEASE OR WEED KILLERS?

Dear Sir: If elm trees are dying from Dutch elm disease, what is killing other trees?

Last year we used more than $200 million worth of 2,4-D and other chemical weed killers (1) plus many more millions worth of insecticides. Thus a powerful lot of poison floats in the air we breathe. Incidentally, considering the amount of cancer-producing chemicals in the air, why place so much blame on cigarette smoking as a primary cause for increased incidence of lung cancer? It would be more logical to question our short-sighted chemical practices.

Weed killers are used along roadways, railroads, power lines, in agriculture, in forest areas for brush control, and on many lawns.

It is possible that many of our elms may be dying not from Dutch elm disease but from weed killer damage. This would also explain the "blight" of other varieties of trees. Presence of the Dutch elm fungus in affected trees is no proof that this fungus killed the tree, for any dying or dead tree is full of many kinds of fungi. This is nature's way of breaking down dead wood to make room for the new. In support of this explanation for dying trees we cite the following:

A North Dakota scientist writes of a blight of the boxelder tree which he believes is due to the agricultural use of weed killers. (2) Damage to elm trees has been traced to the use of weed killers on the lawn, according to a daily columnist. (3) One publication tells of what appears to be "new diseases" of shade trees which were traced to 2,4-D injury, and includes the elm as a sensitive tree. (4) A current farm magazine warns farmers not to apply 2,4-D within one mile of a sensitive crop if the wind is blowing in that direction. The ester forms give off a vapor after spraying which may be carried in the air, and even return to damage susceptible crops if the wind should change direction the next day. (5) Similar warnings in the literature are too numerous to mention. (How about sensitive elms in the path of this vapor?)

We have accepted the beetle-fungus theory on cause and spread of Dutch elm disease long enough. Many cities have discontinued the poison spray program which has proven to be so utterly ineffective. But others continue this program which is not only useless and expensive, but upsets the balance of nature and creates a serious health hazard.

It is high time for a new look. The too-ready acceptance of a theory as an established fact has too often blocked scientific progress. Let's help break up this log jam.

4-H Club in Markham, will represent Cook County at the Illinois State Fair.

There will be a soil judging contest for 4-H club members Aug. 22. This event is being held cooperatively with Will County Extension Service and the Will County Soil and Conservation District. The judging contest will be preceded by a school which will teach members in evaluation of soil types.

Crops are maturing quite rapidly now and data are being collected from the various demonstration plots throughout southern Cook county. Our thanks to the following cooperators in demonstration plot work: Rich Biesboer, vegetable weed control, Glenwood; Ralph Paarlberg, Phil and Bob Rietveld, soil fungicide, South Holland; Herb Kohl, cobalt nutrition in soybeans, Matteson. Through these demonstration plots, useful information pertinent to the local situation is developed. Once the information is developed, it is available to all farmers in the county. These are the reasons why we particularly appreciate the cooperators on whose farms the demonstration plots are located.

Recently, a farm in this county played host to a delegation of Russian people visiting this country. These folks were quite impressed with the mechanization on the DeJong Bros. vegetable farm near Lansing. They were also impressed with the fact that a number of the field workers in this vegetable farming operation drove to work in their own cars.

The 4-H Plowing contest will be held Saturday, Aug. 12, at 159th and Wolf road. There will also be a tractor operators' contest for the 4-H Club members, and a plow setting demonstration, which I hope will be of interest to all farmers. A refreshment stand will be operated on the grounds, so you can come and stay all day. Plowing contest will start about 9 a.m., with the last event a tractor operators' contest winding up about 3:30 p.m.

St. Peter's Church At Frankfort Is Nearing It's 96th Birthday

THE REV. ERICH BIZER has served St. Peter's Evangelical and Reformed church at Frankfort for the past 18 1/2 years. Many improvements have been inaugurated during his pastorate including an education unit built in 1953 with enlarged classrooms and fellowship facilities.

A German background is the history of St. Peter's Evangelical and Reformed church at Frankfort which was organized on Reformation Sunday, Oct. 28, 1867.

The church building was dedicated on July 19, 1868, with the Rev. F. Walter serving as the first pastor. In a short time the congregation grew from 11 families to 30. During those first years, the German language was used extensively.

In 1889, the Rev. Gustav Lambrecht became pastor and served the church for 36 years. During his pastorate, the church saw its largest growth. The present church building was erected during this period, in 1916, at an approximate cost of $20,000.

In 1926, the Rev. George Gerhold became pastor and served the church for 17 years. The parsonage was erected in 1926. At various times, the church was remodeled and redecorated. In this period, individual membership and the envelope system were introduced and the Sunday school was reorganized.

An educational unit was built in 1953 with enlarged classrooms and fellowship facilities. Other improvements and additions during recent years were carpeting, a new pipe organ, parking lots and the purchase of the corner piece of property, Miss Diane M. Gliege, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. Gliege of Chicago and Noble Paul Lach, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Adolph Lach of Orland Park were united in marriage on Sunday, June 11 by the groom's father in Mt. Greenwood Lutheran church.

The bride's sister, Miss

Carolyn Gliege served as maid of honor while Miss Sharon Nelson, Mrs. Harold Sherman and Miss Rachel Frederking were bridesmaids and Miss Cheryl Gliege, flowergirl.

Attending the groom as his best man was his brother Roland Lach; groomsmen were Carl Clerk, John Helmke and Robert Brockhoff.

The bride and groom will reside in Maple Heights, Ohio, a suburb of Cleveland, where the groom will serve a Lutheran church as a vicar and the bride, a teacher. After one year, they will return to St. Louis, Mo., where the groom will finish his final year of training for the ministry.

Jeanne Boleman Weds J. M. Livingston In Afternoon Ceremony At St. Mary's

St. Mary's church of Mokena was the scene at three o'clock in the afternoon of July 22, 1961 for the marriage of Miss Jeanne Marie Boleman and John Marvin Livingston Jr. of Huntsville, Alabama.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony that joined the daughter of Mrs. Henry Boleman of Mokena and the late Henry Boleman and the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Livingston Sr. of Fairview, Ill., was the Rev. Cecil Koop.

To traditional music provided by Joseph Holesha of Mokena, organist, the bride was escorted to the main altar decorated with vases of white gladioli by Chester Patterson, a friend of the family. She wore a street length dress of white chiffon over taffeta with shirred elbow length sleeves and a scalloped lace bodice. Her veil of silk illusion was caught to a scalloped crown, and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, centered with three cymbidium orchids and accented with ivy.

Her only attendant was her sister Miss Patricia Boleman, who served as maid of honor. She chose a white sheath gown with a blue nylon overskirt and blue accessories. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue carnations.

Attending the groom as best man was Keenan Mitchell of Roseville, Ill. and Donald Farr of Industry, Ill. was usher.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Boleman, chose a blue, gray lace sheath dress with matching accessories, while the groom's mother was attired in a black and white print dress with white accessories.

A family style dinner was served to members of the immediate family and close friends at Cavallini's restaurant, Midlothian at six o'clock in the evening. The bridal table was centered with a three tiered cake and flanked on either side by lighted candlelabrums.

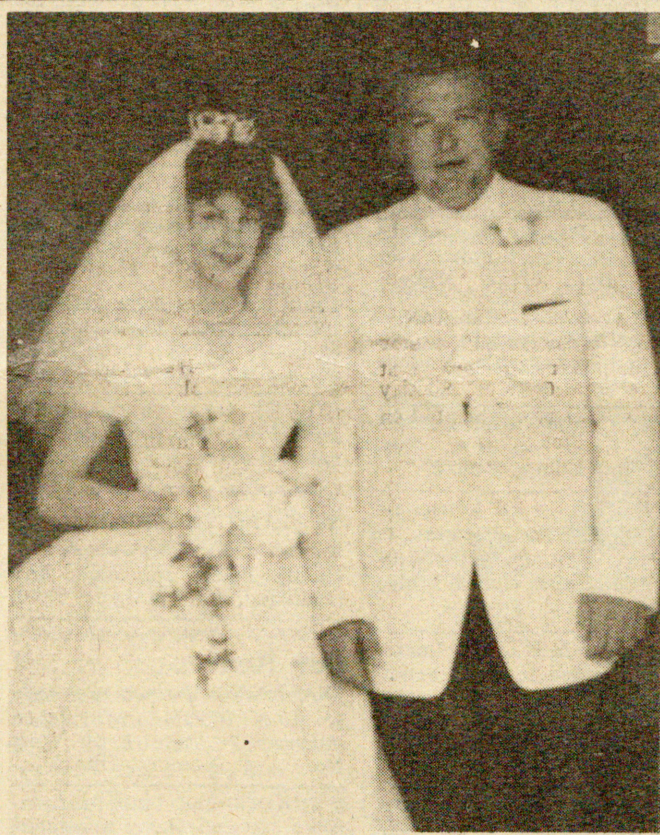

Following a motor trip to Devil's Lake, Wisc., the couple are now at home at 502 Adams street, Huntsville, Alabama.

The bride is a graduate of Our Lady Academy at Chicago and attended Normal university. She completed her college education, with a degree of bachelor of science in education, at Western university, Macomb and taught school at Ann Rutledge, Lincoln Estates and last year was employed with the Huntsville public school in Alabama. Mr. Livingston is also a graduate of Western university, with a bachelor of science degree, and is presently employed as a physicist at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration George C. Marshall space flight center at Huntsville.

Bisgrove-Boehm Vows Read In Home Ceremony

At a private ceremony in the home of the bride, Mrs. Emma Bisgrove, Wolf road, Mokena was united in marriage with Edward Boehm of Culver, Ind., on Saturday evening, July 29 with the Rev. Theodore Wimmer, pastor of St. John's United Church of Christ officiating. The couples children Mrs. Clinton Kraus and Frank Boehm of Chicago served as attendants.

On Sunday a reception was held in the home of Mrs. Kraus for the members of the immediate families. Mr. and Mrs. Boehm will continue to reside at the residence on Wolf road,

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE C. CASEY

Joyce A. Klinger Recites Vows With George C. Casey

Seasonal bouquets of white chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated St. Mary's church of Mokena, Saturday, July 22 for the marriage of Miss Joy Klinger, and George Charles Casey of Oak Forest.

The Rev. Cecil Koop officiated at the 10:30 o'clock morning nuptial mass uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Klinger of 30 Parker street, Mokena and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Casey of 303 Blakeley drive, San Antonio, Texas.

Miss Judith Kuchenbecker, soloist, was accompanied at the organ by Joseph Holeska both of Mokena.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an imported chiffon gown over taffeta with applique flowers outlined in pearls, decorating the skirt which extended into a chapel train in back. The bodice featured a neckline and capped sleeves. A tiara crown of sequins and rhinestones held the bride's fingertip veil. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom. She carried a cascading bouquet of white carnations centered with white cymbidium orchids.

Miss Frances Klinger served her sister as maid of honor and chose a true blue street length dress with darker blue trim and featuring a square cut neckline. A cascading blue carnation bouquet completed her outfit.

Dressed identically to the maid of honor were Misses Rosemary and Virginia Casey, bridesmaids and sisters of the groom.

Attending his brother as best man was Robert Casey Jr. and ushers were William Klinger, brother of the bride and Fred Combs.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Klinger, chose a blue cotton sheath with matching accessories while the groom's mother was attired in a two piece pink outfit with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of white carnations centered with a red rose.

Some 150 guests were served a family style dinner at the reception held in the VFW hall, Mokena at 5:30 o'clock that evening. A four tiered wedding cake surrounded by the bridesmaids bouquets braced the bridal table.

The newly wed couple are now at home to their friends and relatives in their new home located at 15946 Central avenue, Tinley Park.

Mrs. Casey is employed with the Frank Weber Insurance company of Chicago while the groom is an employee of the Illinois Bell Telephone company.

Sayers-Smithson Nuptials Read In Joliet

At a traditional summer wedding on Saturday, July 8 in the Ingalls Park Methodist church of Joliet, Miss Joanne Lee Sayers exchanged marriage vows with James Robert Smithson.

The Rev. Harold Stevens read the two o'clock nuptial uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sayers of 511 Laurel Avenue, Lockport, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Smithson, 188 East Francis road, New Lenox.

Guest soloist, David Eriksen, sang Because and The Lord's Prayer. He was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Maud Ayers.

Escorted by her father to an altar adorned with baskets of palms, the bride wore a gown of white Schiffli embroidered nylon organza over bouquet taffeta. The basque bodice was accented with a scalloped square neckline and long tapering sleeves. The embroidery was repeated in the bouffant floor length skirt with floating side panels and a chapel train.

A Swedish crown of seed pearls sprinkled with Aurora Borealis was fastened to the fingertip silk illusion veil, and she carried a cascading bouquet of white stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Miss Marge Hamilton attended her sister as maid of honor. She was garbed in a sheath frock of turquoise silk organza with matching overskirt. The basque bodice was accented with a draped neckline; short sleeves and a shirred cummerbund with a self fabric cabbage rose attached in back. Completing her outfit she wore a matching silk organza petal cloche with blusher veil. She carried a bouquet of turquoise and white carnations.

Wearing ensembles like the maid of honor's were the bridesmaids, Miss Phyllis Glad, Miss Marlene Schmidt and Miss Karen Sayers, sister of the bride.

William Duerr attended the groom as best man and ushers were Ed Martie, Bub Gleason and Richard Smithson, brother of the groom.

Dressed in white silk organza over turquoise taffeta was Pamela Rogers, flower girl. She carried a basket of red rose petals. Mark Hamilton, acted as ring bearer.

Guests were received at an evening reception at Saenger Hall, Tinley Park with some 300 in attendance. For the memorable occasion the mother of the bride and groom chose turquoise gowns with white accessories.

Leaving on an undisclosed wedding trip the new Mrs. Smithson was attired in a two piece powder blue suit with white accessories. The couple are now at home to their friends at 141 Pleasant street, New Lenox.

Pre-nuptial parties were given by the following hostesses: Mesdames, Rose Badal, Millie Hansen, Edith Sayers, Alice Sayers and Millie Novak. Also the Misses Phyllis Glad and Marlene Schmidt.

Frankfort Board Adopts Annual Tax Levy Measure

The Frankfort village board adopted its annual tax levy ordinance at its regular meeting Monday night, calling for a levy of $25,564 toward its budget of $104,347. This leaves $78,783 of the total appropriation to come from sources other than taxes on realty and personal property. A copy of the ordinance is on file at the village hall.

Village Attorney Albert H. Krusemark pointed out to the trustees that while the tax levy was for $25,564 the amount forthcoming would be substantially below that figure, probably somewhere around the $19,000 mark.

Demands for more services by the public plus increasing costs of supplies and material is eating away at the village revenues, it was brought out, and the board will scan all future requests that cost money with close attention.

Police court fines which go into the general fund had built up to $2,000 but that sum was depleted considerably Monday night when the board paid the bill for a new squad car, $1,290, purchased from Cooper-Show Ford, of Frankfort.

Former Area Resident Dies In Arizona

Paul Korsgaard, 57, a designing engineer, formerly of Lincolnwood, died July 31 at Phoenix, Ariz., where he had been residing for the past 18 months.

He came to Lincolnwood from Chicago in 1950 and was a member of the school board of Schumacher school, Dist. 121. Mr. Korsgaard was born at Dwight July 24, 1904.

Besides his wife, Marie, Mr. Korsgaard is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Marianne Vance, Topeka, Kans., and Mrs. Janet Hunt, New Lenox; one son, Donald, of Park Ridge; one brother, Viggo Korsgaard, of Middlesex, N.J., and one sister, Mrs. Louise Bressner, of Phoenix.

Funeral services were held July 31, in accordance with his wishes, at Bethany chapel, Phoenix. Cremation followed.

Zoning Board Will Study Ordinance

An ordinance amending the zoning ordinance and providing, among other things, for multiple housing, was discussed by the New Lenox village board at its meeting last week and referred to the zoning board of appeals for final study before passage.

All dwellings, single, or multiple, are to have 30-foot setbacks. The lot for a single family dwelling, served by the village sewer system, must have an area of 7,500 square feet. R-1 designates single family dwelling; R-2 is for two family dwellings and R-3 for multiple family units. Multiple units, however, will be limited to four families and the lot must be of sufficient size to provide 2,000 feet of lot per family.

C. A. White, Dies, Native Homer Twp.

Funeral Services were held last Wednesday, Aug. 2 at the Goodale Funeral home, Lockport, for one of Homer's oldest citizens, Charles H. White, 90 years old, who died at his late residence on 151st street, Sunday, July 31 following a lingering illness. The Rev. H. M. Finley officiated at the service and burial was in Brooks cemetery.

"Charlie" as he was known to his many friends was born July 2, 1871 in Homer township and farming was his life-long occupation. Following his marriage to the former Rebecca Moore, the White family lived for many years on the former Lamb farm, which is now owned by Merritt J. Cagwin. Later they purchased their present home on 151st street where he resided with the Frank Parkers who operated the farm and took care of Mr. White.

Preceding him in death were his wife, Rebecca; two daughters, one grandchild; two brothers and a sister, who were also life-long residents of the area. Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Frank (Irene) Parker, Mrs. Myrtle Jungles and Miss Thyra White; one son Ross all of Homer; 11 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Their Own Design

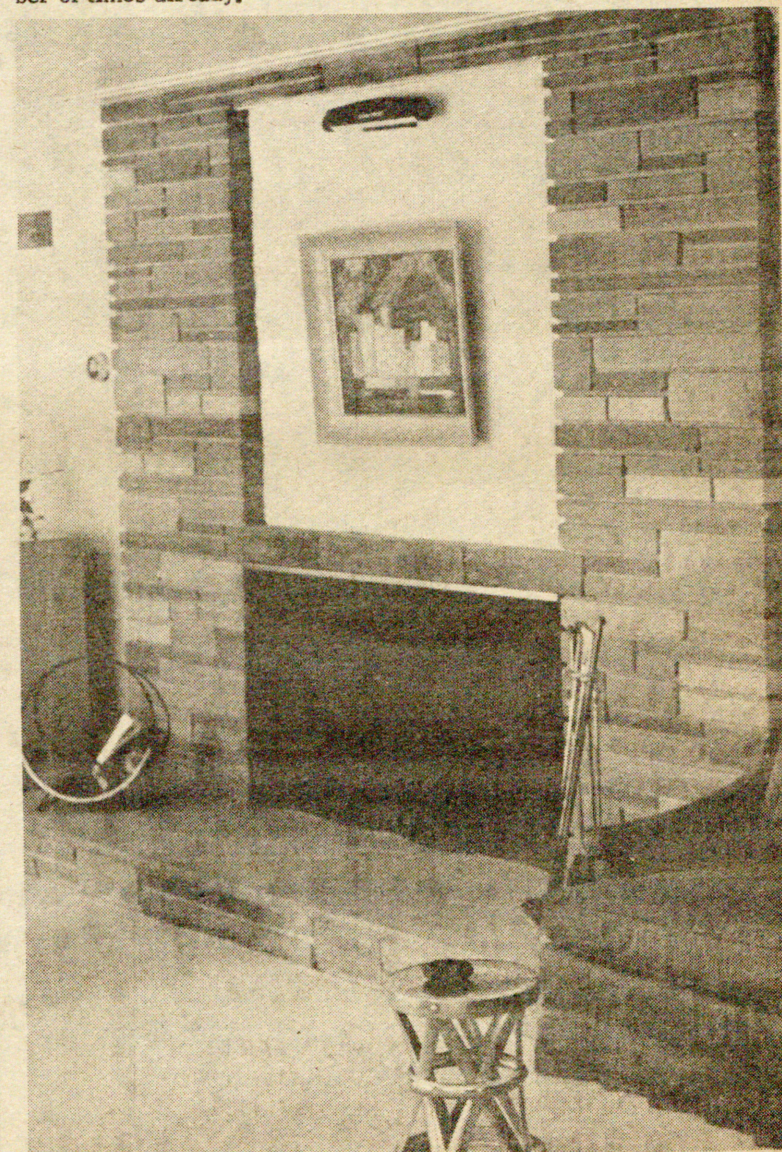

Combine Elegance And Utility In Modern Home

Most families in the Golden Triangle find it somewhat difficult to justify the construction of a swimming pool from a utility viewpoint. But Mr. and Mrs. James R. Boyd who live on Romeo Rd., between Lockport and Lemont have built a beautifully integrated 44,000 gallon swimming pool, supplied it with a powerful pump and lots of hose so that they may supply water for the excellent Northwest Homer volunteer fire department in case there is a fire in the neighborhood.

Each summer when there is a dry spell, the fire department calls and asks the Boyds to keep their pool filled in case a fire in the area should require the use of the pool as a reservoir. Trucks have refilled their tanks for fire fighting in the area a number of times already.

RECREATIONAL DELIGHT
Of course the pool is a recreational delight for the family as well and because it is so well fitted into the rest of the living area of the home via a comfortable patio and a large basement recreation room, it provides a focal point for summer activities.

This utility factor has made the whole house doubly useful, and there is little space that does not get its full share of living. This design is no accident and is based on many years of careful planning and discussion between Mr. and Mrs. Boyd. He designed the general plan of the home and selected the 80 acre site. She then adapted the color scheme and furnishings to the house. Both have succeeded admirably.

In the summer, the home life is centered on the pool and the outdoors. In winter it focuses on the enormous stone structure which goes up through the center of the house and contains a big living room fireplace on one side and a spacious charcoal grill for tasty cooking in the kitchen. On the basement level this stone structure serves as a focal point for entertaining guests in the recreation room.

RELAXED ELEGANCE

The Boyds emphasize relaxation and comfort in their home but this does not subtract any elegance. The master bedroom is the most beautifully decorated room in the house and features black and white color and drapery that is quite striking.

The bath is extremely roomy and provides two large wash basins and plenty of sunlight through a moorish - styled grilled window. Completely tiled, it can be cleaned in a jiffy and looks quite elegant.

The kitchen is absolutely modern with the very latest in built-in appliances. The dining room is just a few steps away for more formal occasions and the kitchen itself contains a compact but comfortable dinette area for informal dining and breakfasts.

A long sun porch looks out on the stable where the Boyds keep seven Shetland ponies in their back yard. A new foal is just a few weeks old and provides a magnetic attraction for neighborhood children.

In addition, to providing just about anything you could ask for in home comforts the Boyds live just 35 minutes from Midway and 45 minutes from O'Hare field where he drives during the week on his job as manager of the flight department for the central legion for American Airlines.

GOOD LOCATION

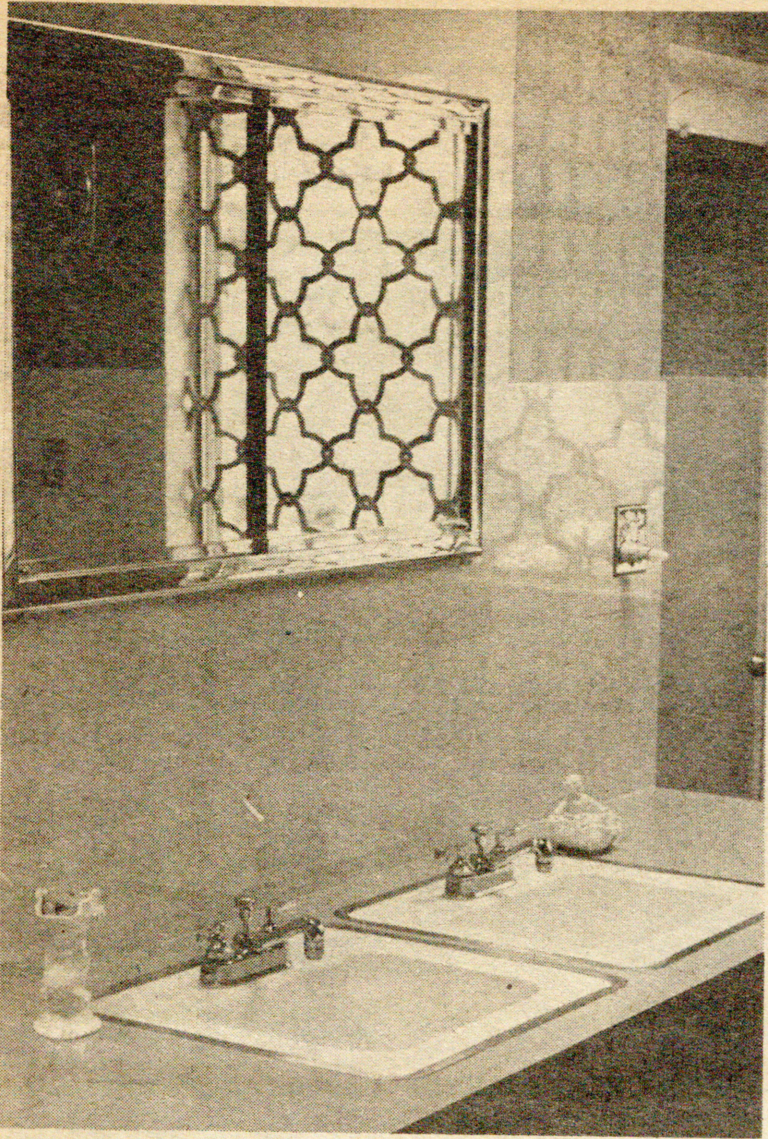

He finds it an easy drive and commuting is no problem. Also as far as location is concerned Big Run Golf Course is a five minute walk down the road, although the Boyd homesite is 80 acres and big enough for a small course by itself.

The Boyds farm out about 35 acres and raise enough alfalfa, corn and oats to feed the ponies with ease. Boyd, who formerly owned a ranch in New Mexico which was sold to the Atomic Energy Commission at Los Alamos, at one time raised Morgan horses and the ponies are more less a sentimental reminder of the old days.

The stable was designed to provide room for a hobby that Mrs. Boyd enjoys occasionally too. The upstairs is a comfortably designed artist's studio which can pinch hit as a guest house if necessary.

Boyd has been with American Airlines for 32 years and after living in a lot of different places including Chicago both he and his wife feel that this home is just about perfect for their needs.

Some other highlights of the home are a wall-sized oil mural in the recreation room, a wall panel that converts to a king-sized table by attaching it to two half circle cocktail tables, wall to wall carpeting, a handy second bedroom

MOORISH STYLE--A unique facet of the bathroom design in the Boyd home is the originally designed moorish-styled grill in the bathroom window reflected here in the mirror above the double lavatories.

plus a den that is easily converted for more sleeping area and a front yard that contains 75 stately oaks. Cutting the grass is almost a full time job at the Boyd home and keeping the drive clear of snow in the winter requires a powered snowplow. Living in a fully-wooded area provides lots of entertainment from the wildlife in the area too. Squirrels, birds of all kinds and even a few friendly skunks provide an ever-changing wildlife scene. The Boyds have found the answer. They have combined utility, elegance, comfort and a beautiful setting to make their home a true example of better suburban living.

Turn Modest Home Into Showcase

AUSTURE--This exterior view of the Wood residence is austure and plain, contrasting greatly with the warmth and beauty of the interior.

A limited supply of that all-important commodity . . . money faces almost every homeowner some time or the other. State Trooper Bob Wood of New Lenox is no exception to this and yet he and his wife Bonnie have a strikingly beautiful home.

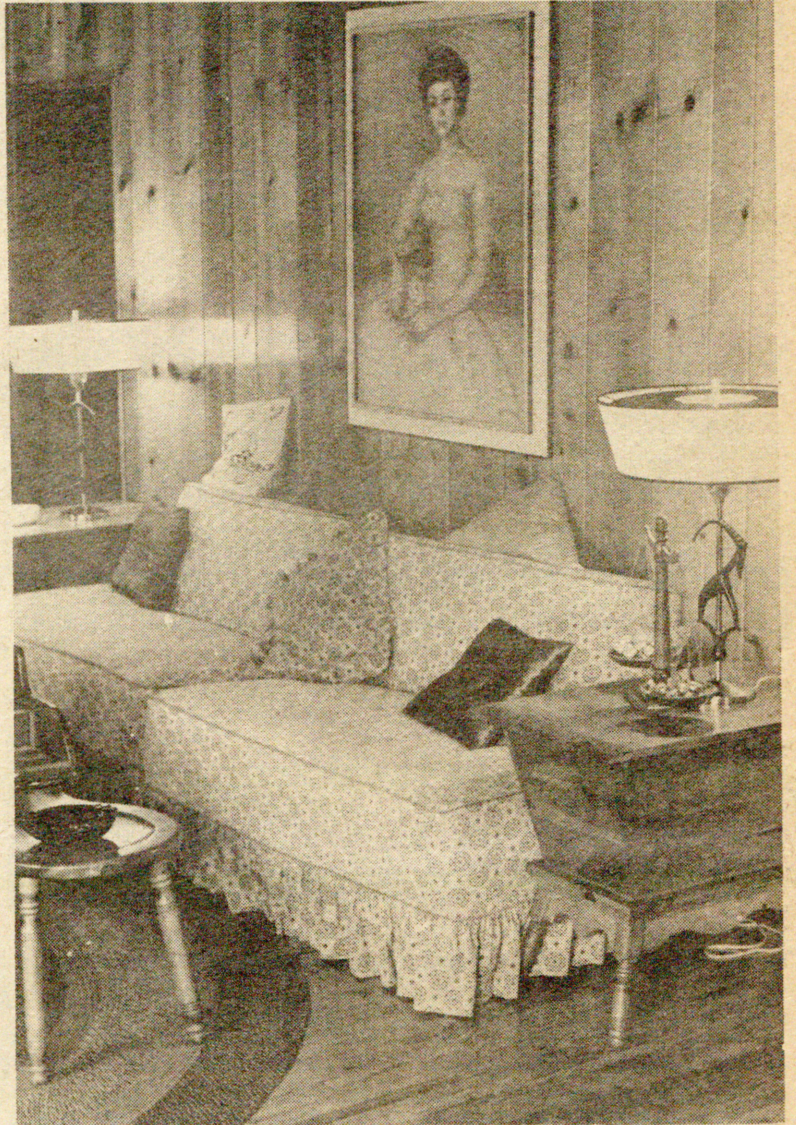

Bob Wood has worked some magical tricks with furniture and remodeling in a home which he and his wife have converted into a showplace at the corner of Pine and Cedar, New Lenox.

It's not hard to guess that his hobby is wood working. When they moved from Matteson to the corner of Pine and Cedar in New Lenox three years ago much of the house was paneled in knotty pine. The floors were all hardwood and absolutely black.

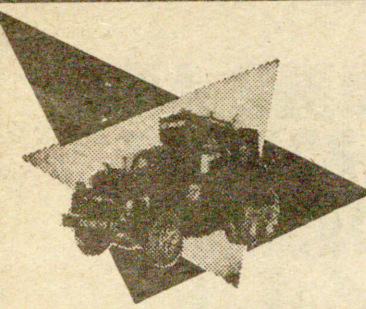

The first project was a complete floor refinishing job. When all the natural color of the wood was presentable he used a special commercial bowling alley finish - "fabulon" to keep the floor shiny and clean.

KITCHEN REMODELED

Then the real work began. The kitchen was completely remodeled from a dingy workshop into a bright, shiny, easy to clean working area. Being the ninth kitchen he has remodeled, it was an easy task really. New cabinets with shutter style louvered doors went in all around. Inch thick, nail-on brick around the built-in oven and over the stove gives a simple, functional look to the whole room and yet does not require heavy reinforcing of the floor or walls. The refrigerator is painted a WELL-DESIGNED--The cobbler's bench (left) is designed to make a handy coffee table and the two doughboxes flanking the couch make end tables with storage space inside. The portrait, by the way is an original oil.

OUTSTANDING—Few homes could claim to have more authentically styled early American furnishings than the Wood residence. Here are three well-made examples in the dining room. intact. All are hand-made. In the dining room there is a hand-made dry sink used as a buffet, and a handsome hutch used as a china cabinet which together would be worth over $600 and would be welcomed in any home. The hutch has a built in FM radio too.

The enormous solid oak dining room table has been refinished and simplified to match the rest of the furniture. The chairs were purchased in kit form and assembled in the basement workshop at a 20% savings, and were then stained to match the rest of the hand-made furniture. The table is also finished with the bowling alley wax and it glistens like brand new.

COMPLETELY REDONE—This kitchen has been completely redone in an early American design complete with louvered doors on all cabinets and brick-sheathed panels for stove and oven areas.

The residence, which was formerly owned by a doctor, had two rooms in front used for a waiting room and an examination room. These have been converted to a den-library and a sewing room.

In the den is a massive desk which took four months to re-finish and is now a beautiful addition to the room. Built in book shelves will go in here too. The sewing room is painted to break the monotony of the knotty pine and the sewing machine cabinet is in a matching color. The old shelves of cabinets which the doctor used for storing drugs is ideal for the many small items Mrs. Wood uses as a seamstress.

Wood has remodeled the living room to add a large picture window in a bay which neatly holds the electric organ and adds quite a bit of light to the room.

Jane, the 16 year-old daughter, has a frilly bedroom upstairs that was formerly a store room. It has been furnished with a new hardwood floor. Two bedrooms are designed for guests and the master bedroom is furnished with a group of matching period pieces, highlighted with a large canopied double bed.

A special feature of the bedroom decoration is a unique wallpaper design. Mrs. Wood cut out some wallpaper daisies to blend with a tailored pattern in one of the room giving a unique effect. She also refinished and added brass pulls on an old chest they found in the basement that is now a beautiful addition to the room's furnishings.

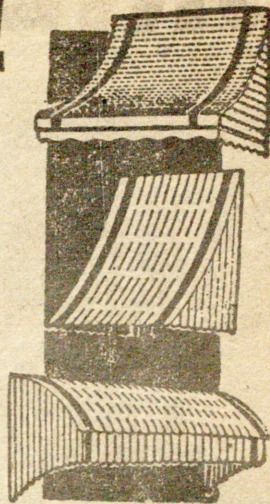

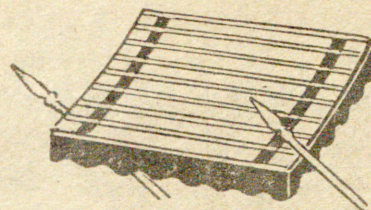

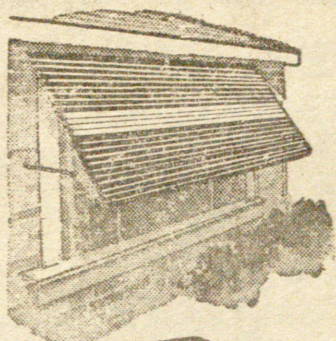

The stairway has been rebuilt and a fancy steel railing installed at the top to keep the early American theme.

The pantry downstairs has been converted to a small laundry room. A unique Dutch door goes from the Kitchen outdoors and was made by simply cutting a regular door in half, and installing panes, at a fraction of the cost of a new Dutch door.

The lot is 80 x 167 and the Woods have done quite a lot of terrace eliminating, grading and flower planting to keep the outside looks in step with the interior.

Bob and Bonnie Wood have proven conclusively that hard work and talent can turn a modest home into a real showcase.

Moving Walls And Building Fireplaces Is No Trouble For Executive Craftsman

Better Suburban
Living Supplement
August 10, 1961 Page 10

When a housewife tells you, "My husband is going to go tear out the living room wall and move it five feet out to make our living room and bedroom larger", you usually take it with a grain of salt, unless her husband is a building contractor.

Mrs. Robert G. Bell, of Walnut Rd., in Spring Creek Woods made this statement recently, and she wasn't kidding. Her husband is a production manager for P. Faelzer and Co., a meat purveyor in Chicago and has never even worked for a contractor.

Yet Mr. Bell is going to move the living room wall, lengthen the roof and provide some beautiful stone masonry for the wall when he finishes. Bob Bell has been doing this kind of thing since he was a boy. He remodeled his parents home in every conceivable way and he has continued to do this kind of work on his own home.

Most men won't even attempt to plaster, yet Bell has built a spectacular stone fireplace in his home, remodeled the kitchen and bathroom, redesigned and rebuilt the closets, plastered, painted and landscaped the lot besides.

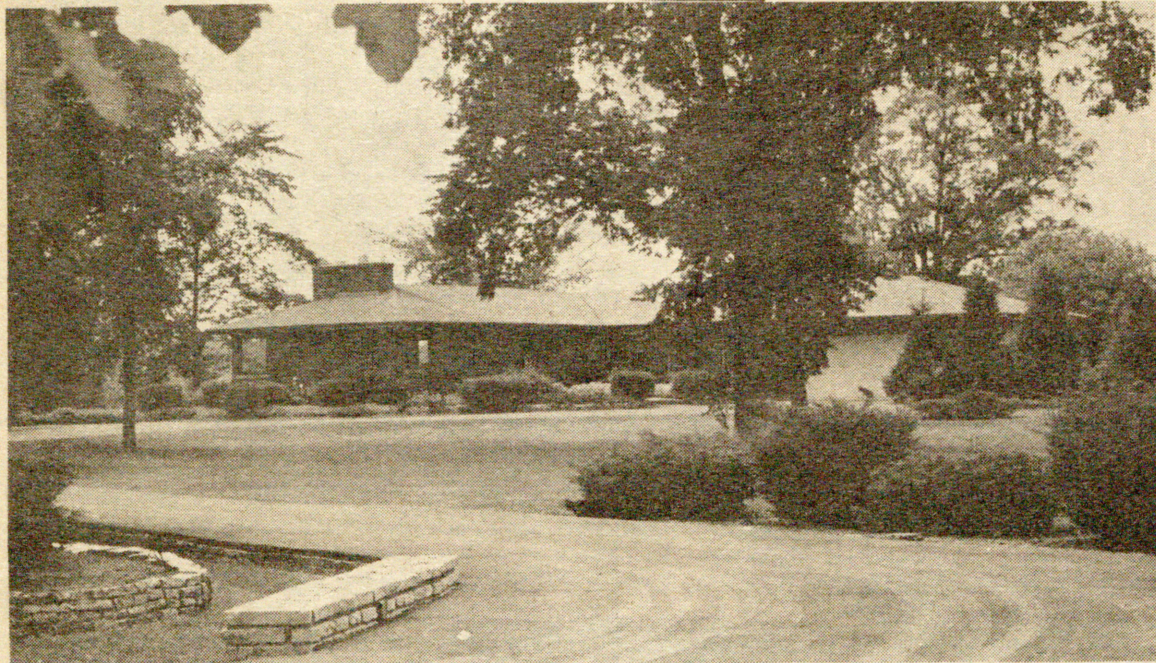

Mrs. Bell laughs while she says that when old friends visit they ask where a certain wall has gone to, or where did the new fireplace come from?

In addition to remodeling and changing the home inside, an enormous amount of work has gone into the outside of the home and into the landscaping and gardens.

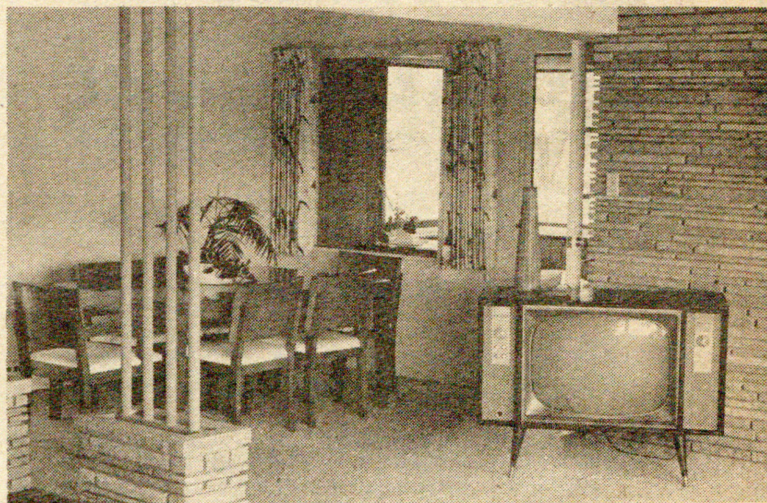

Mr. and Mrs. Bell work almost every evening on the beautiful residence, and the saws and power tools in the garage workshop hum busily into the late hours.

UNIQUE FEATURES

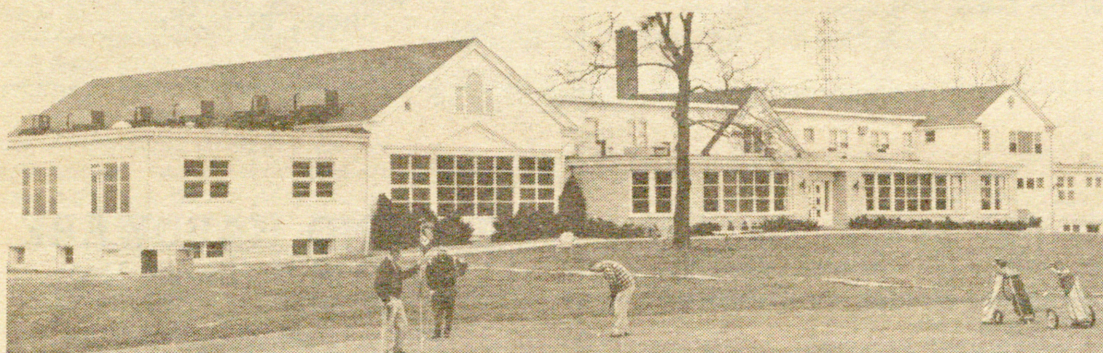

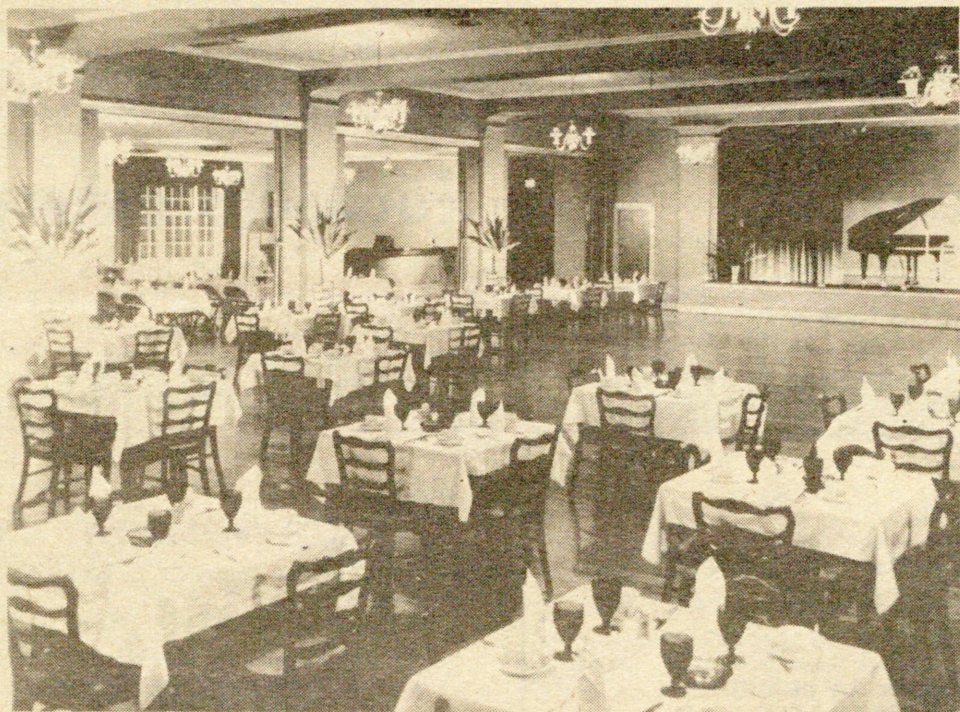

The home itself is full of unique features. The bathroom for instance has a glass block wall that

NEW DRIVE--The Bells have just completed their new asphalt driveway and rebuilt the low stone entry markers. It is located on Walnut Rd. in Spring Creek Woods.

DINING ROOM--The dining room is set off with two stone planters that match the fireplace, and blend comfortably with the living room and the library at the rear of the photo.

provides bright, but diffused light for maximum vision, a shower with a tight door on it and an exhaust fan that keeps steam out of the rest of the bath and some handsome tile work to keep the room clean and beautiful.

The master bedroom is bounded by a long glass - filled wall and marked by a uniquely arranged closet that is quite compact but thoroughly convenient.

The narrow stone fireplace dominates the living-dining room and a stone planter trio matches and marks the entry way. New wall to wall carpeting compliments all the new remodeling.

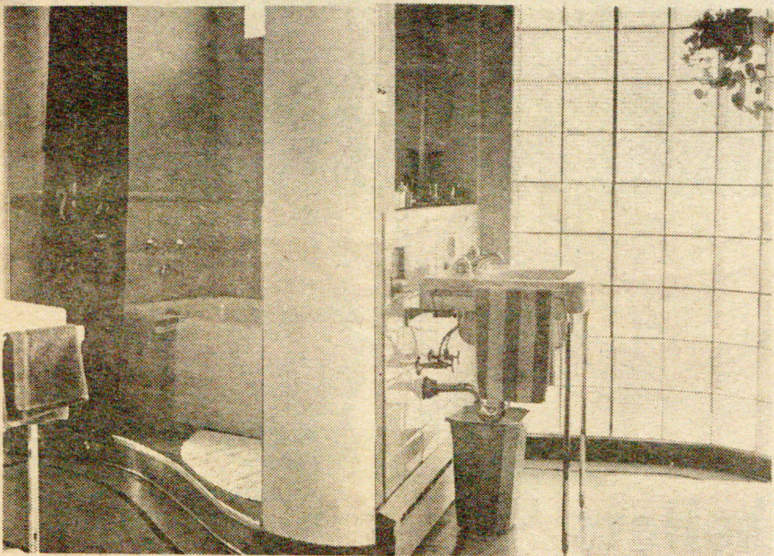

The back bedroom and the cozy library are in the process of being changed although they are not cluttered as in most homes where changes are being made. The library has a fireplace back to back with the living room's.

The Bell residence is located on a two acre lot and there is a 30 foot drop at the rear which breaks down to the Spring Creek. In the same area the Bells have started a swimming pool the concrete is poured 12 feet deep and 60 feet across in a rounded free form. There is also a large concrete dressing room with space for a sun deck on top. Next to the pool is a large putting green which is completed also.

The Bells were one of the first families in Spring Creek Woods and they have grown with the community, located between Lockport and Lemont.

This summer she ended 20 years of secretarial work with Armour and Co. and has found that there will be no problem keeping busy as long as Bob continues to tear out walls and build newer, and better rooms on this handsome home.

BATHROOM-- This uniquely designed bathroom in the Bell home is planned to offer lots of light (from glass brick at right) and privacy, too. A closed door to the shower faces the tub at left.

DOMINANT--The narrow stone fireplace in the living room which goes through into the library, takes a dominant place in the Bell home. It was completely constructed by Bob Bell, and is a prime example of artistic masonry work.

Frankfort Couple Solve Space Problem

What kind of a home does it take to provide ample space for five active children? Six years ago Dr. and Mrs. Claude Otto of Frankfort decided to answer that question with a big two story home that was nearly 100 years old.

The Ottos, who moved to Frankfort from Nebraska, to raise their family and become a part of the community while he developed a medical practice, chose the old

Doty home at 34 W. Nebraska St. This residence was the first farm in the area and was the original homestead in the village of Frankfort. In fact the old well in the back yard, which has now dried up, used to serve the homes in the surrounding area when the town was first established.

The outside had been extensively remodeled by the James family from whom the Ottos purchased it.

It fell to Dr. and Mrs. Otto to convert the inside for practical use by their large family.

THREE ACTIVITY AREAS

There are three areas which have been set aside for activity. The basement has a pool table and table top train set, the back porch is for caged pets (birds and guinea pigs right now) projects and games while the recreation room is for TV, cards and quiet games.

In the bedroom department there are three set aside for the five children. Charles, 19 (away at college most of the year) and Craig, 10 share one bedroom, Mary Ann, 16, and Martha, 14, share another and Jennifer, 9 has one to herself.

There is a bath for the kids and another for the senior members of the household. Dr. and Mrs. Otto's master bedroom leads to a handsome tiled bath with enclosed shower stall. All is finished with easy-to-clean ceramic tile, including a dressing table top.

Mary Ann and Martha have a unique dressing area which can be used for study as well. It is a full wall length and is furnished with large built-in closets, built-in dressers and a study-vanity table.

UPSTAIRS UTILITY ROOM

Neatly tucked away upstairs is Mrs. Otto's laundry-utility room. It's located there because it seemed silly to haul all the dirty clothes downstairs when there was a room ideally located on the second floor. It has worked out very well for all concerned and even when laundry washes at night it does not disturb anyone's sleep.

Downstairs there is a large dining room, which handily seats seven and more, a large, comfortable living room which also is used often and a modern efficient kitchen complete with built-in cabinets.

The Otto home is set on a lot of 105 foot frontage but is "L" shaped with enough room in the back of the lot for a basketball court and a large play house and storage area.

Above the recreation area downstairs is a sunporch which will someday be converted to another bedroom if all the plans go well.

Until then the Otto home will ring with the sounds of active children and adults, birds and pets as the old home absorbs the high level of activity. A hundred years have come and gone, and there are many more ahead for this warm, inviting modernized old residence.

Trees Get Grilled Along With Food In Some Instances

Those delicious hamburgers, franks and steaks you grill outdoors may be giving your trees heartburn, rather than your guests.

You can't be a short-order cook near or under pet trees, for that spells disaster in short order for the landscaping. Leaves, bark and even branches may get burned to a crisp. By the time you notice the damage, it may be too late to save the affected greenery.

Unwitting singeing is only one of several abuses cited as avoidable with minimum thought and care. Check yourself and members of the family to eliminate carelessness that will damage the landscaping during the summer months ahead. Here are some don'ts.

1. Don't spray with weed killer too close to trees -- for root systems frequently take up poisons to the leaves, or vapors may directly affect the leaves.

2. Don't drain chlorinated swimming pool water into adjacent areas populated by trees and shrubs.

3. Don't use tree trunks to hang shooting targets -- since bark injury frequently follows.

4. Don't wrap wires for hammocks and swings on tree branches. Use screw eyes secured in the wood. Wires may girdle, or strangle, your trees.

5. Don't leave identification tags on newly planted nursery stock for the same reason.

6. Don't use trees near driveways as backstops for the family car, or you're almost certain to "spring" the bark, opening it to infection and decay.

Down Payment Is Only Part Of Home-Owning Cost

Every penny you get on a loan costs money. Whether you are buying a house, furniture or a car, there are four main ways to cut interest costs.

Make as large a down payment as possible. Sometimes a lender gives a lower rate to a person who makes a large down payment because less risk is involved.

Get as low an interest rate as you can. Check on different types of loans at different lending agencies, such as banks, savings and loan associations, mortgage loan companies and insurance companies.

Use as short a payment period as you can schedule.

Try to get a loan that allows prepayment without penalty and will reduce interest charges as the payments are made.

BEFORE--This is a front view of the home before it was remodeled, and it looked as if it could be a 100 years old.

REMINDER OF THE PAST--This stone, set along the entrance to the home is a reminder of the past when horses were a common sight on Frankfort's streets.

Kijaks Remodel 100 Year-Old Farm

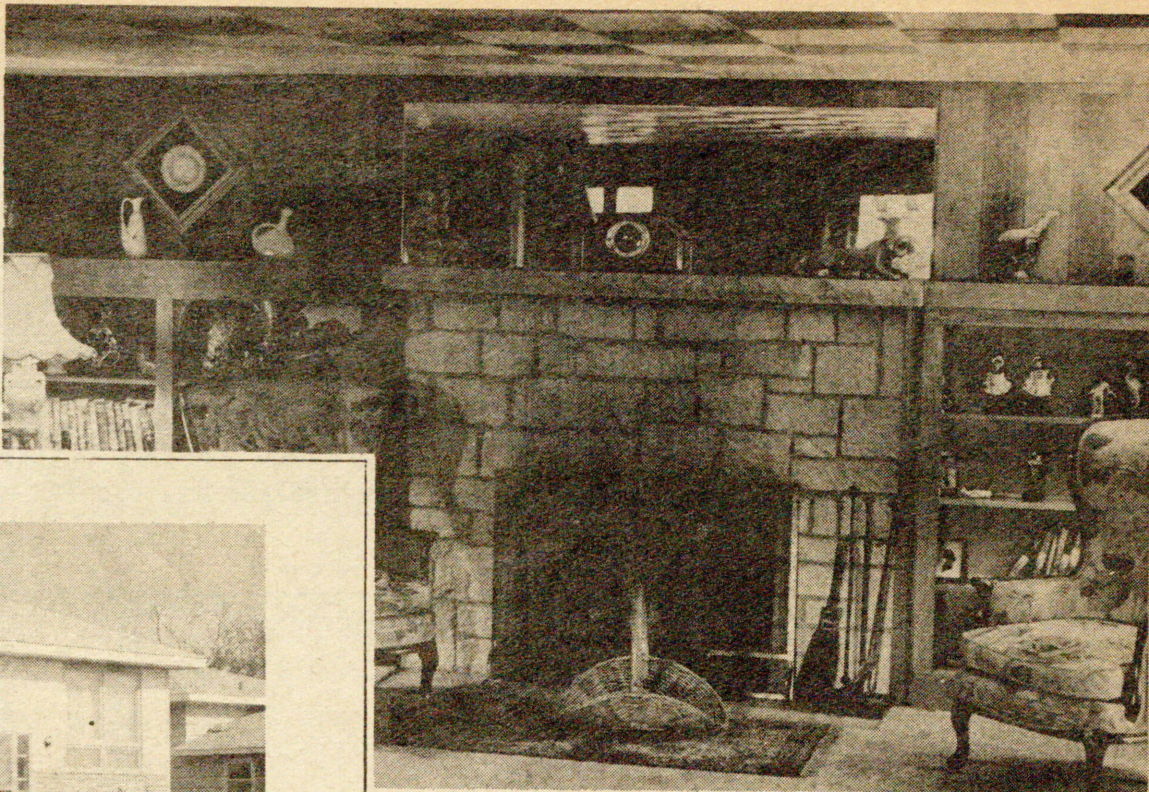

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kijak moved from their Marquette Park residence on the South Side of Chicago 14 years ago into a 100 year old farmhouse and have since converted it into a charming country home.

Mrs. Kijak has supervised the extensive remodeling while her husband has seen to the operation of the 200 acre farm and cattle-raising operation.

She had opposed his leaving the city for 25 years and finally gave up when they moved in 1947. Asked how she likes living there now, she replied "I wouldn't go back to the dirty city for anything".

During the remodeling Mrs. Kijak retained the beautiful wood

The Kijaks have found life in Lemont Township to be pleasant and accommodating and plan to spend the rest of their days on the farm. Life in the out-of-doors has made confirmed suburbanites out of them, and they have profited considerably in the bargain.

Clean House Whips Fabric Pest Problem

Good housekeeping will for the most part prevent fabric pests from damaging house furnishings. However, rugs and rug pads under large pieces of furniture, piano felts, stuffing composed of animal fibers in furniture and other hard-to-clean places in furnishings may become infested. A light application of DDT will insure protection for long periods.

More details on control of clothes moths and carpet beetles are given in the University of Illinois publication, "Clothes Moths and Carpet Beetles," NHE-87. Copies are available at your county farm adviser's office.

On the second floor, the master bedroom has been created from three small rooms and the closets have windows in them as a special feature that came with the remodeling. The rest of the upstairs has a roof that was raised up 3 1/2 feet to give the proper living space for the other three rooms and bath. Two well-furnished but small bedrooms provide space for guests and a special sitting room is set aside from Mrs. Kajak to do some hobby work, especially painting. This hobby room opens onto a small, private sun roof.

Mokena Couple Remodel Farm Home Successfully

Everyone who buys a home must decide at one time or another whether to build, buy a new home or remodel an old one. Mr. and Mrs. William Cady of 5559 Maple Street on Marley Road north of Mokena chose to remodel an old residence and are thoroughly satisfied with their decision.

One factor is chiefly responsible, Mr. Cady teaches woodshop at Homewood - Flossmoor High school. The old house is a two story with 2 1/2 acres of land, complete with horsebarn and pasture.

Located just 12 miles from his work and in a handy country site, the home caught their eye immediately.

Cady started off the living and dining room remodeling by taking out the old plaster and lath walls and replacing them with dry wall panels. He remade five windows and a door into two big picture windows and a corner door.

ADDS NEW SECTION

Next he added a new section onto two of the old rooms making two small rooms into a big 14 x 16 bedroom and a large 14 x 24 recreation room, which is also Mrs. Cady's utility room.

An important step to spruce up the exterior was the removal of an old front porch to make more light for the front rooms and the addition of a handsome panel on the outside.

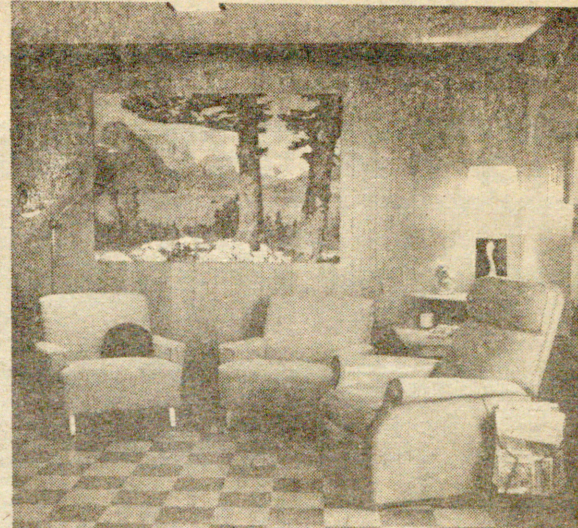

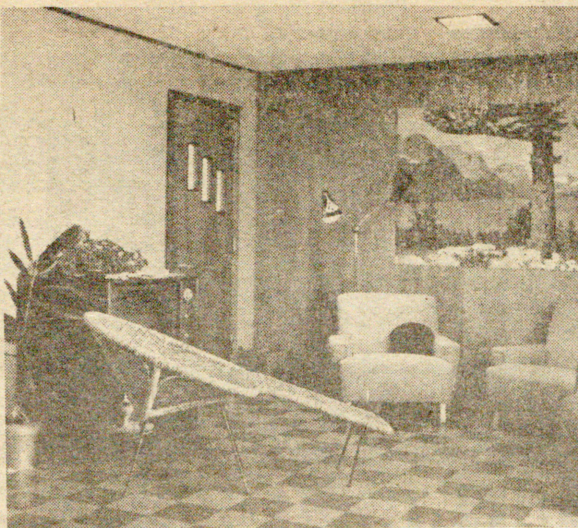

Cady who has done woodworking since he was a child says the hardest part of remodeling is running into unseen problems inherited from old construction. He used a session of summer school to build the new section of the house, working with his shop tools in each room as the job progressed.

HANDSOME ROOM

The 14 x 24 recreation room is really quite handsome with mahogany V groove panel walls relieved by a 2 x 5 x 2 picture window and two walls of pastel green paint. The floor is a special pressed wood laid like regular floor tile and called "partile". It wears better than any material they have found available.

A porch has been added to the rear of the house and minimum landscaping has been undertaken.

For the Cady's two daughters, 17 months and 6 weeks, two upstairs bedrooms are going to be remodeled. After the house is completed, then some extra landscaping will begin.

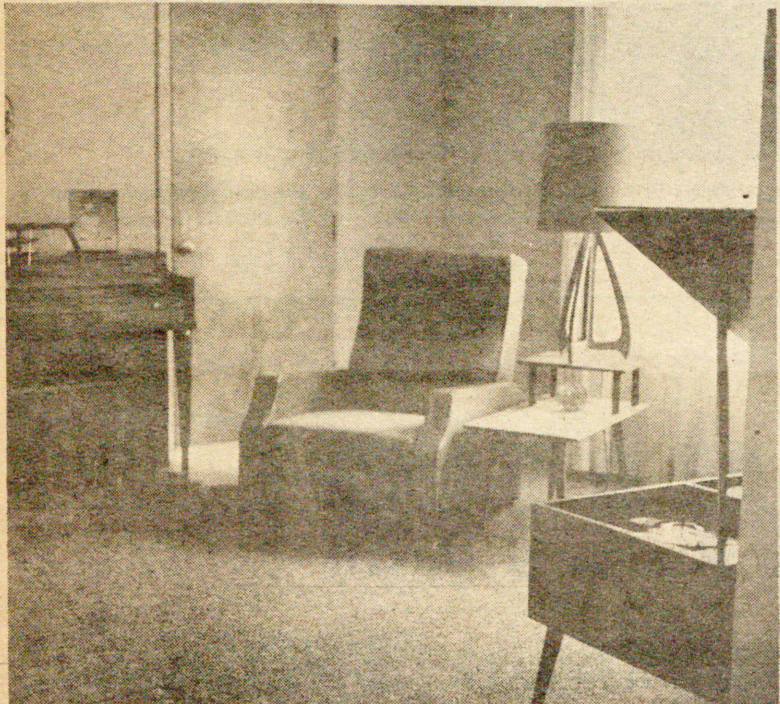

RECREATION ROOM — Here are two views of the just completed recreation room in the Cady residence. Mahogany paneling contrasts easily with the painted dry wall. Note also the pressed wood flooring which is a unique feature of the room.

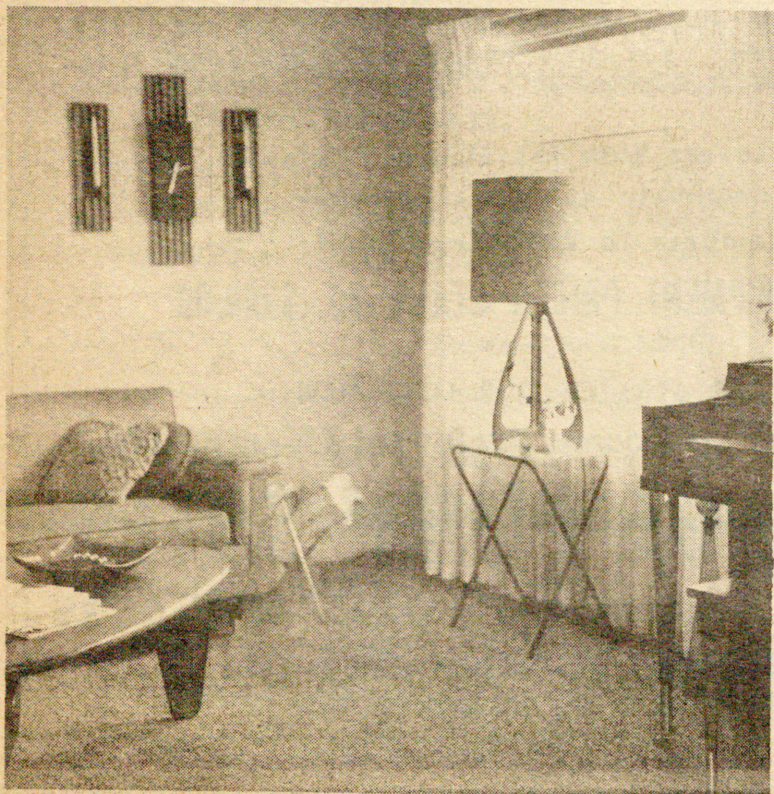

In the pasture next to the house is a Tennessee walking horse which no one seems to have time to ride. Apparently this is the fate of a busy house remodeler, but after a visit to their home, it's easy to see that it has all been worth it.

New Lenox Couple Build Home Shuffleboard Court

There's a neighborhood in New Lenox where shuffleboard is all the rage this summer. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pfeiffer of 115 W. Haines Ave. installed a full size, concrete slab shuffleboard court right in the middle of the back yard.

Neighbors, friends and relatives all have come to visit and enjoy the game, which is suitable for all ages. With five grandchildren, the Pfeiffers have no trouble looking for partners.

Although this is the third home they have built and occupied it is just right for the two of them, and has provided ample living space, without being too large for 14 years.

Two bedrooms and a bath on one end are balanced by a long living room with fireplace, comfortable-sized dining room and a kitchen. The utility room opens onto a garage complete with plaster walls and radiator. It could be easily converted to another bedroom. The big barn at the rear of the lot will handily hold three cars.

Mr. and Mrs. Pfeiffer have not neglected the homesite either. They have planted a generous amount of evergreens, hedge, trees and flowers, which not only compliment the home, but define the lot lines and the driveway.

Although he is retired, he does masonry work for himself and his family. He is scheduled to do a stone fireplace for one of the clan in a few weeks, and a look at the fireplace, planters and stone walls around the Pfeiffer place give assurance that he'll do a top-flight job.

Every winter is spent in Florida, but this year the Pfeiffers have a surprise for some of their southern friends. They have been practicing on that 52' long 6" thick, steel and wire reinforced slab to sharpen their shuffling talents. If you don't think so, try your hand at it, they can show you some real shooting.

Ingenuity, Planning Transforms Home

BY ANN ROGER

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Konen, whose home at 17069 Elm Lane drive, Tinley Park, is an example of what can be done to transform a frame cape cod house to a unique, comfortable dwelling, planned and completed the improvements since they moved in 12 years ago.

The chose a corner house so that they could build a breezeway and attached garage, their first project in improving the home.

The remodeling of the first floor was done by Mr. Konen, who did not own a screw driver when they first moved in. He now has a modern workshop and up-to-date power tools.

He knocked out a portion of the living room wall to make a door which leads into the dining room. On one bare wall of the kitchen he mounted cabinets and made a pass-thru which has a louvered pink shutter on the dining room side. He also planned the remodeling of the upstairs where a dormer was built across the north side of the house.

The walls of the second floor bedrooms are paneled in white ash. The closets have sliding doors and instead of mounting poles, the Konens installed moveable clothes racks. The large powder room and shower between the bedrooms is tiled completely on walls and ceiling. Over the mirror which extends across the side wall hang three light fixtures with black filigree shades of the same type used in the bedrooms.

Originally a frame cape cod like all of the others built in the Parkside area about 12 years ago, the Konens had theirs covered with permastone, a man-made product. The dormer is of white frame. Red and white fiber glass awnings are on all of the windows, except those in the dormer, which open outward.

All of the improvements to both the interior and exterior were planned on paper to exact scale by Konen, who studied engineering, but is an accountant and office manager.

When the dormer was being built and workmen had raised the roof, Mrs. Konen had an idea which was not planned. She asked the workmen to retain the overhang on the roof, which softens the lines of the dormer, blending it into the structure and providing shade for the upstairs rooms.

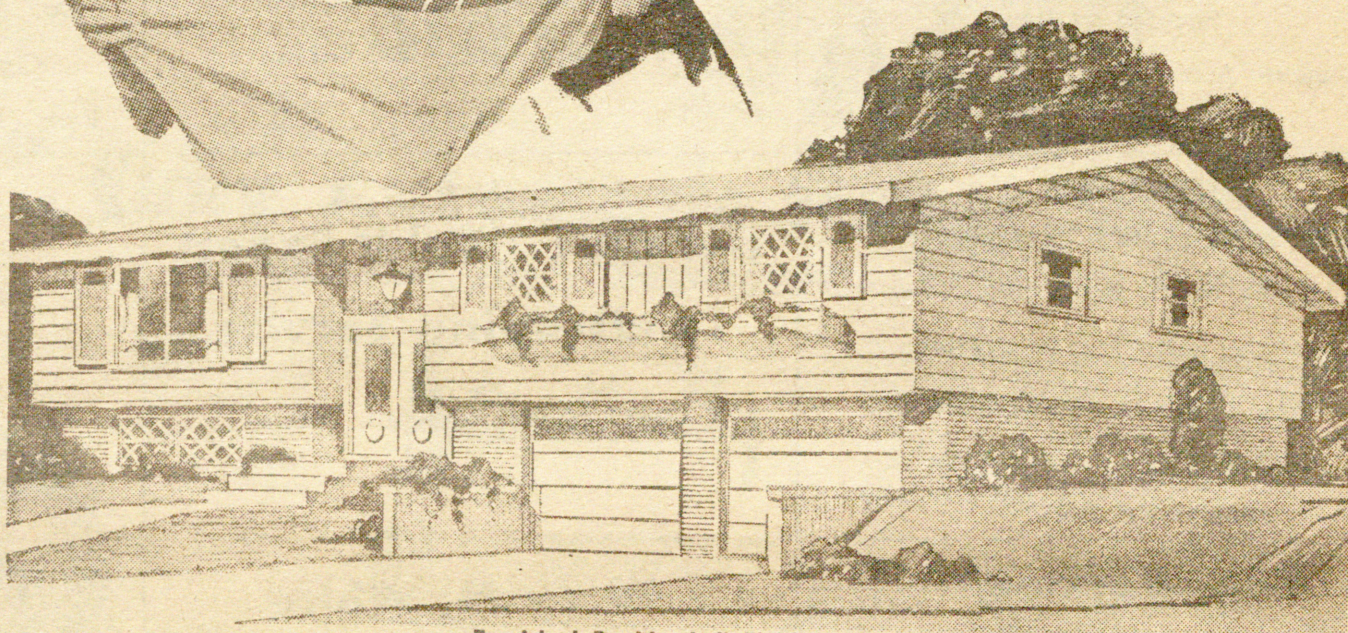

SWIMMING POOL

The most recent transformation to the grounds of the Konen home is the swimming pool which was installed last year. Mr. Konen is an expert swimmer and the couple has spent many vacations in Florida so that he might enjoy the sport. Now this is not necessary. Mr. Konen has a swim every morning before breakfast and his wife always joins him in the pool before dinner.

To accomodate guests and facilitate using the pool, the bath house is a corner of the garage which is carpeted and shut off by a curtain. On nearby shelves there are bathing suits and caps for unexpected guests.

Mrs. Konen would like to eventually have wood paneling in all of the rooms for easy upkeep. When her husband asked what their next project will be, she answered,
